Kingsmills is down with Dolly going up

► Downtown furniture store celebrates after well-known and beloved employee hits a milestone: 25 years with Kingsmills

If you've been to Kingsmills in downtown London, chances are good you've run into Dolly Magee.

After all, it's hard to forget taking a ride inside an elevator with an actual lift operator — only a handful remain in the entire country.

And for more than a quarter-century now, Magee has been the friendly face just inside the 1931 Otis-Fensom elevator door waiting to greet and politely escort you to the floor in question, even warning you to watch your step as you exit.

And the next time you visit? She'll likely remember your name.

Magee started at Kingsmills in 1986, after answering a help-wanted ad on TV.

"This is my second home. I've been here for so long and I enjoy every minute of it," she said. "Some people say it's like stepping back in time. They love the service and wish there was more of it."

"It's really part of the heritage of the city. Obviously an unmanned elevator is a money saver, but you don't get this kind of service if you don't have a Dolly."

JIM HANDS, VICE-PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER OF KINGSMILLS, COMMENTING ON THE 1931 OTIS-FENSOM ELEVATOR, ONE OF ONLY A HANDFUL STILL IN USE NATIONWIDE

► Kingsmills elevator operator Dolly Magee.

KYLE REA/METRO

Jim Hands, vice-president and general manager of Kingsmills, praised Magee, calling her a landmark for Kingsmills. And she's got a sense of humour, too.

"You ask Dolly how the day is going and she'll answer, 'Well there are a lot of ups and downs!'"

"Dolly's the everything person: she's the friendly face and knows everybody's name and almost every customer's name," said office manager Maria Scarpelli.

And customers do indeed recognize her — and miss her when she's gone. Hands himself operated the elevator for a few minutes yesterday.

"Just in the short time I was operating the elevator (yesterday), a lady got on and asked, 'Is Dolly on holidays?'"

But will Kingsmills soon celebrate 30 years with Magee on staff? She doesn't think so.

"There comes a time in your life when you need to retire. But not just yet!" ● KYLE REA

KYLE REA

The fact that a woman is more likely to draw helpers by yelling "fire" over "rape" is telling: Sexual violence against women carries a stigma and, often, bystanders would rather not get involved.

That's according to Barbara MacQuarrie from Western's Centre for Research and Education on Violence Against Women and Children. The centre is set to host a conference in Toronto starting today called Addressing Sexual Violence: Changing Attitudes, Changing Lives.

► Barbara MacQuarrie

MacQuarrie said people are uncomfortable talking about sexual violence against women — and they need to pick a public education campaign that can break through such a barrier.

er. "We tend to blame women for what happens to them: 'She was dressed provocatively' or 'She had been drinking' or 'She was in the wrong place at the wrong time,' and we do hear them almost on a daily basis," MacQuarrie said. "That really makes it difficult for women to talk about their experience because they're going to be stigmatized and they're going to be blamed."

The greatest challenge for any public message will be showing how we're all responsible to stop sexual violence against women, MacQuarrie said.

Sad statistics

- 39 per cent of Canadian women say they've been sexually assaulted at least once since the age of 16.
- Of that number, 69 per cent were assaulted by men they knew, while 19 per cent reported being sexually assaulted by strangers.

- 24 per cent of sexual assaults took place in the survivor's home.

Doctors' pay should reflect level of care: Panel

A group of Ontario citizens tasked with studying the province's health-care system says doctors' pay should be tied to how well they treat patients.

The recommendation comes in a new report commissioned by consulting firm PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC). The citizens' panel also backs the province's long-standing push to create electronic health records, but wants the public to have a say in how records systems are set up.

PwC put together 28 randomly selected Ontario citizens and gave them a crash course on health care in the province. The panel then came up with advice for health professionals and policy makers.

Police seek tips after two hit by van

Police are seeking witnesses to a van-pedestrian collision that took place last Friday at 4:30 p.m. at the corner of Richmond and Oxford streets.

The driver of a white company van, towing a trailer, made a right turn and hit two pedestrians.

The vehicle is a white Chevy cargo van with a business logo on the side. It was towing a rusty, reddish small trailer behind it and had ladders on the top.

Witnesses are asked to call London police or Crime Stoppers. ● METRO

CEO applauds newly expanded hospital care

► London Health Sciences Centre CEO says growth and success is due to strong past of local health-care system ► 70 beds, 150 nurses recently added

► London Health Sciences Centre CEO Bonnie Adamson delivers a speech about the accomplishments and future goals of London hospitals over the next year in front of more than 200 people who gathered yesterday for an annual general meeting at University Hospital.

KYLE REA
@METRONEWS.CA

London hospitals have added almost 70 beds and hired more than 150 full-time nurses since the fall, and are poised to add another 38 beds come September.

So said London Health Sciences Centre CEO Bonnie Adamson as she laid out the highlights of a successful year, and held out prospects for the future during yesterday's annual community meeting at University Hospital. "We have the opportunity to build a great future based on a remarkable past. A future rooted in the hearts and minds of the people who create the wonderful fabric of London Health Sciences Centre," Adamson said, addressing a crowd of 200 people who gathered for the meeting.

As well as new beds and nurses, she also highlighted:

- The 10-storey north tower at Victoria Hospital, which houses general and orthopedic surgery patients. It opened last October
- $3.2 million to hire infection-control staff, thanks in part to a two to three per cent surplus posted by LHSC over the last few years. "Patient safety is and will be our highest priority," Adamson said.

• $1.2 million to open a rapid-assessment zone at Victoria Hospital's emergency room. The zone should lower waiting times.

Suit and tie by day, catcher's mitt by night

CONTRIBUTED

Stratford's Tyler Graham is destroying IBL pitching, and he's doing it by navigating a work-life balance that would leave even the most hardened time-management expert begging for mercy.

In his first season with the London Majors, Graham is leading the IBL in hitting — with an average well north of .400 — and home runs, all while playing the game's most demanding position: catcher.

He also works 40 hours a week at TD Canada Trust as a financial-service advisor. Graham somehow finds the time to squeeze in six hours of sleep a night.

"It's tough for sure. It took me awhile to get adjusted," he said. "I usually work nine to five, then I head straight to the park if we have a game during the week. I'm lucky to get home by midnight."

Graham took last year off, but as this summer approached he found himself longing for the game.

"I missed being at the park.... I missed the competition. I needed a competitive outlet," Graham said. "The Majors have a great atmosphere.... It's been fun being around the guys and the ballpark again."

Crews take on ash-tree infestation

City crews say that this summer, they're taking on a pest that's been feasting on the Forest City for years.

City councillors were told Tuesday the emerald-ash-borer infestation is getting worse and could one day wipe out 90 per cent of London's 440,000 ash trees.

All ash trees will soon be removed from some public streetscapes. Some of those ash trees are dead and need to be removed for safety reasons.

City trying to uphold tax freeze

City CAO Jeff Fielding has tabled the idea of removing garbage collection from property taxes and making the service a utility like London Hydro.

Instead of having garbage rolled into the annual property tax bill, it would become an extra surcharge like the current water and sewer bill.

Some councillors don't see the point, saying Londoners would still pay the same amount, only on a different bill. AM980/AM980.CA

'You're my woman now'

► Found on a Moncton street, she tells court of her 26-day abduction

A New Brunswick woman who disappeared for 26 days last year after leaving a shopping mall says the man accused of abducting her did so at knifepoint, threatened to kill her and later told her, "You're my woman now."

The 55-year-old woman testified yesterday at the trial of Romeo Cormier that she left the Moncton mall where she worked shortly after 8 p.m. on February 26, 2010, when she bumped into the man and apologized.

She said the man — whom she identified in court as Cormier — grabbed her and she saw a knife coming at her face, so she put her hand up and was cut across three knuckles.

"I thought I was being robbed," testified the woman, who can't be identified due to a publication ban.

She told the jury that they got to a rooming house and she was led to a basement room.

The woman told the court she was sexually assaulted almost every day she was held in the basement. She escaped when he left the house to go to a food bank.

Cormier, who is 63, has pleaded not guilty to kidnapping, forcible confinement, sexual assault, assault with a weapon, theft and uttering death threats.

Saudis pledge $70M to Gaza

FUNDS. A UN agency aiding Palestinian refugees said yesterday Saudi Arabia is contributing $70 million for new housing units in the Gaza Strip.

Israel has authorized construction of the 1,200 new homes and 18 badly needed schools in Gaza, in what would be one of the largest housing projects in the seaside territory in years.

UNRWA spokesperson Chris Gunness said the test of Israel's decision would be whether it allows thousands of trucks to ferry building material into Gaza's border town of Rafah, where the houses are to be built.

Watershed Authority spokesperson Dale Hjertaas said water levels are still very high, but the flows should start to go down soon.

Hjertaas said the question is how much more rain might fall later this week and that means the region isn't out of the woods yet.

Estevan is one of 26 communities under a state of emergency.

Big cities may be bad for brain: Research

This may come as no surprise to residents of big cities: Living there can be bad for your mental health.

Now researchers have found a possible reason why. Imaging scans show that in city dwellers, certain areas of the brain react more vigorously to stress.

Previous research has found that growing up in a big city raises the risk of schizophrenia. And there's some evidence that city dwellers are at heightened risk for mood and anxiety disorders.

The new study, done in Germany, focused on how the brain reacts to stress caused by other people.

Animal studies suggest that early exposure to stress can cause lasting effects, said Dr. Andreas Meyer-Lindenberg, director of the Central Institute of Mental Health in Mannheim, and senior author of the report.

Obama lays out cyber-war rules

► Cyber-security experts and defence officials agree, cyber war will be a part of any future conflict

U.S. President Barack Obama has signed executive orders that lay out how far U.S. military commanders around the globe can go in using cyber attacks and other computer-based operations against enemies and as part of routine espionage in other countries.

The orders detail when the military must seek presidential approval for a specific cyber assault on an enemy and weave cyber capabilities into U.S. war fighting strategy, defence officials and cyber-security experts told The Associated Press.

Signed more than a month ago, the orders cap a two-year Pentagon effort to draft U.S. rules of the road for cyber warfare, and document, the Pentagon lays out some of the cyber capabilities the military may use during peacetime and conflict. They range from planting a computer virus to using cyber attacks to bring down an enemy's electrical grid or defence network.

The guidelines are much like those that govern the use of other weapons of war, from nuclear bombs to missiles to secret surveillance, the officials said.

"You don't have to bomb them anymore. That's the new world," said James Lewis, cyber-security expert at the Center for Strategic and International Studies.

The entire strategy has not been released, but several U.S. officials described it on condition of anonymity. Many aspects of it have been made public by U.S. officials in speeches over the past several months.

U.S. sets Afghan exit strategy

U.S. President Barack Obama says 10,000 troops will come home from Afghanistan by the end of this year as the U.S. mission shifts from combat to support after nearly 10 years of war.

Obama said a total of 33,000 troops would be withdrawn by next summer, as he announced what he called "the beginning but not the end of our effort to wind down this war."

Obama spoke from the White House East Room last night to mark a milestone in a war he inherited and expanded with a surge of troops earlier in his administration.

Canadians keen to pay off mortgages

Recent mortgage borrowers appear to be aware of the risks of taking on new debt and are anxious to pay it off quickly, a Canada Mortgage and Housing Corp. survey says.

The poll found that 75 per cent felt it was "very important" to pay off their mortgages as soon as possible, while 39 per cent had set payments higher than required. Another 20 per cent had made at least one lump-sum payment since obtaining their mortgage.

The online survey of 3,512 recent participants tracked only those Canadians who refinanced, renewed or took out a mortgage over the past 12 months, a time when interest rates were at or near historic lows.

That has caused some anxiety among policy-makers, including Bank of Canada Governor Mark Carney, who has warned about the dangers of taking on too much debt.

Don't rule out exclusive deals: Shaw to CRTC

Federal regulators should not impose a blanket ban on exclusive deals for content on new platforms such as smartphones and tablets, Shaw Communications told CRTC hearings yesterday.

Though Shaw prefers non-exclusive deals, the company told the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission that current rules are enough to prevent anti-competitive activity.

The CRTC has heard from BCE, Telus, Rogers and Quebecor at the hearings into the ownership of television channels by the big cable and satellite companies.

Both BCE and Quebecor have called for the regulator to allow exclusive deals for content on smartphones and tablets, saying they drive innovation.

Rogers and Telus have lined up on the opposite side and called for the regulator to block exclusive deals for content on the new platforms. Telus argues that competition, not exclusivity, is what drives innovation.

MPs to debate back-to-work bill

Prepare for a parliamentary postal pyjama party.

The House of Commons was expected to break for the summer today, but both the Conservatives and the Opposition New Democrats say they're prepared to keep sitting through the weekend to debate legislation that would send thousands of locked-out postal workers back on their routes.

The back-to-work bill contains several controversial measures, including wage rates lower than what Canada Post had been offering its union and guidelines for the arbitrator that some suggest are biased toward management.

The Conservatives want the bill passed, while the NDP wants to delay it to give both sides more time to reach an agreement on their own.

Postal workers were locked out last week after staging a series of rotating strikes.

DUST BUNNIES MAKE GOOD PETS, THOUGH

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

My parents are visiting soon, which is exciting because it means I have to clean my apartment.

That's an unprecedented opportunity. Like an athlete playing for a championship, this live-alone bachelor will stand with a wash bucket filled to the brim with determination and think, "Chances like this come but once in a lifetime."

You might assume that if I wanted my apartment to be clean I could fix it up any time I want, but it's not that simple.

First of all, my apartment gets messy without my knowledge. I'm not sure how it happens, but I'll leave the odd book lying around, a stray load of laundry, a whole roast chicken and — bam! — my apartment is messy.

It's not a big place, my apartment, but it has ninja skills and sneaks up on me.

An example: Just months ago, I had a typical bachelor fridge — one bottle of ketchup and a box of baking soda. But now, inexplicably, it's packed. Not with edible food, but with homemade Accidental Soup, newly created dried fruit, and products stamped with expiry dates that evoke nostalgia. I don't know which came first, but the chicken died of old age before these eggs were eaten.

My second problem is that I'm a guy.

I don't know how many times women have warned me that their apartment is an "absolute mess." Then we step inside and there's an open magazine and half a glass of red wine. If I lay my eyes on either, they run over to remove it as if I had just discovered a human head.

Guys go through the absolute mess spiel, too, but we mean it. A glass and a magazine would not qualify. More likely we would consider that suitably sterile for a kidney transplant.

A bit messy might involve ketchup stains on the wall and chomped cigar bits on the floor. An absolute mess would involve livestock.

But here's the thing: I want my apartment to be clean. I often do clean, but it always seems to be at the surface level — the top third of the dirty clothes get washed over and over, while the bottom two-thirds are left only with unfulfilled dreams.

With my parents arriving soon, I finally have the driving force I need to see what lies at the bottom of the hamper. Unless my parents read this and decide to stay somewhere nicer, such as a gas station bathroom.

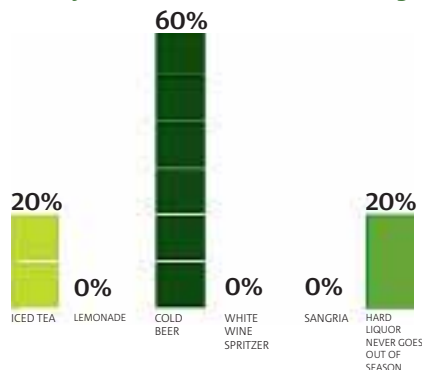

Don't show them this, please. I'm not ready to come clean just yet.

Worth mentioning

LONDON. A handgun once owned by gangster Al Capone sold for nearly $110,000 US yesterday at an auction in London.

The Colt .38 revolver was manufactured in 1929, the year of the St. Valentine's Day Massacre, when seven people were slain during clashes in Chicago between Capone's gang and a rival mob.

Auctioneer Christie's says the gun went for $109,080 US to an anonymous online bidder.

It was sold by an anonymous private collector along with a letter from Madeleine Capone Morichetti, the widow of Al Capone's brother Ralph, confirming the gun "previously belonged to and was only used by Al Capone while he was alive."

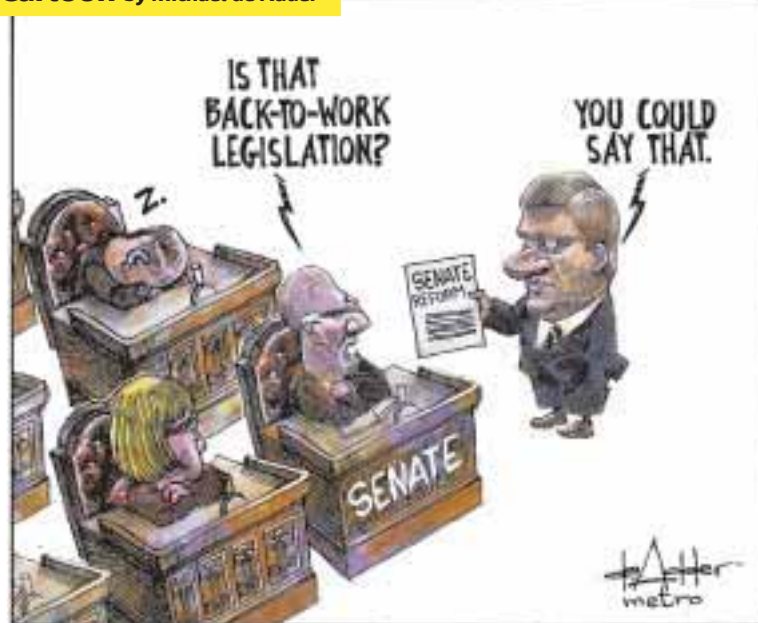

The sale price was at the upper end of the pre-sale estimate of between $80,000 and $113,000. It includes a buyer's premium.

New York-born mobster Alphonse (Al) Capone dominated the Chicago underworld during Prohibition until his 1931 arrest for tax evasion.

Capone died in 1947.

Little leadfoot just wanted to see his dad

A seven-year-old boy, barefoot and in pyjamas, drove a car for 30 kilometres, sometimes hitting speeds of 80 km/h, before finally slowing down and stopping with the help of authorities.

"He was crying and just kept saying he wanted to go to his dad's," Caseville, Mich., police Chief Jamie Learman said. "That was pretty much it. He just wanted to go to his dad's."

Police began looking for the Pontiac Sunfire around 10:15 a.m. Monday after someone called about a very young driver.

The boy was staying with his mother in Huron County's Sheridan Township, a rural area 180 kilometres north of Detroit. She had worked the night shift and was unaware her son and the car were gone.

The boy had hoped to drive to his father's home in Fillion, also in northern Michigan. Police pulled him over in a 90 km/h zone in Caseville Township, some 25 kilometres to the west.

Learman told the Detroit Free Press he has seen drivers younger than 15, but not someone this young.

This weekend, Londoners might want to take a road trip.

On Sunday morning, a bus will be waiting outside The Met on Dundas Street ready to take Londoners to Esli Dodge Conservation Park for a day of live music at the Homemade Jam Festival.

"Once people arrive, they will be taken with the park. It's so beautiful," says Martha Kolls, an executive member of the festival's planning committee.

Last year Kolls was asked to play the festival.

"When I arrived, I was in awe of the venue," Kolls says. "It really is an untapped resource for southwestern Ontario."

Kolls wanted to help promote local talent as well as the unique concert site near Forest, Ont., so she got involved.

The venue is an old flood plain that was turned into a conservation site in the 1970s. Since then, the natural amphitheatre has played host to numerous performers, some playing at the foot of the sloping landscape and some on an island set in a small lake at the bottom of the hill.

On Sunday the park will be filled with London-based talent. Handsome Dan and his Gallimaufry, Alanna Gurr, Olenka and the Au-thumn Lovers, Lonnie in the Garden and Wild Domestic are all performing.

From folk to jam-rock, Esli Dodge Conservation Park, located about an hour northwest of London, will be alive with music.

But for Kolls, this is about more than music.

"We just really want to build a community," she says. "And incorporate the idea of doing things on a local level."

This means involving vendors, farmers and entrepreneurs from Forest, London and Sarnia, who will be selling art, crafts, antiques and food at the park. It also means inviting your friends and family along for the adventure.

"Music festivals like this are for everyone and the idea of having whole families there to me is the perfect way to develop a community," Kolls said.

The festival starts at 11 a.m. and runs until 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the park and online through HomemadeJamInForestOntario.com for $20.

Train produces wine for fans

The Grammy-winning group Train has been making waves with its wine club, and now, the trio is taking the next step with its own wine.

Starting next week, fans will be able to buy Drops of Jupiter Petite Sirah wine from Train's online wine club and other outlets. The name is a nod to one of Train's earlier hits, and is produced by the group's wine company, Save Me, San Francisco Wine Co., which takes its title from a Train album.

But Train guitarist Jimmy Stafford said the wine venture isn't an attempt to make a profit on the Train name — it's more about creating something special for fans.

"We're not really trying to get into the wine business or anything. It's really kind of helping to spread the name out there, and something for our fans," he said in a phone interview Tuesday.

Train has had an online wine club for a while. And has a wine blog and even an app. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From small screen to silver screen with Segel

► Jason Segel tells Metro about working with Diaz, Muppets ► This actor, musician, writer isn't slowing down anytime soon

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Jason Segel isn't one for summer vacation. While on break from How I Met Your Mother, the actor, writer and musician is beyond busy promoting his latest film, Bad Teacher, opposite Cameron Diaz and Justin Timberlake, and putting the finishing touches on his passion project, The Muppets. Segel found a free moment to chat with Metro about working with Diaz, not slowing down and making his own Muppet.

Bad Teacher is a great example of raunchy comedy done well. What do you think made it work?

I think one of the things that makes the movie work is that Cameron is so intrinsically likeable and is known for having such a bright personality that there's a lot of fun to be had in seeing her kind of off the rails with that character.

Was there a lot of improvisation for your scenes with her?
There was quite a bit of ad-libbing. You know, Jake comes from the same school of comedy that we were kind of mentored by with Judd Apatow. I think part of our process in general is that a lot of the hard work is done in casting, and once you've done that and you've hired people that you're confident know their parts even better than you do as the writer or director, and so you trust in them to do their thing, and it usually pays off.

Between TV, film and promotional duties, how hectic is your schedule these days?

I was in Michigan a couple of hours ago filming, and then flew into New York. I'm here for about three hours, and then back home. So pretty busy. Right now I'm filming a movie called The Five-Year Engagement that I wrote with my writing partner, Nick Stoller, which is another romantic comedy under the Judd umbrella. And we've got Muppets coming out.

With the first official trailer for The Muppets out now, you must be pretty stoked.

I couldn't be more excited. That's been a real labour of love. Nick Stoller and I started writing it almost five years ago now — four years ago. Seeing it come to fruition is really, really exciting.

I've seen cuts of it, and I think we're just inches away from some real magic. So we're very, very excited for our Thanksgiving release.

You've been doing some great parody trailers for it up until now.

I thought the very first parody trailer, where it seemed like a mediocre romantic comedy, was really funny. I was watching people kind of sigh in relief that Amy Adams and I hadn't made a terrible movie.

Can you tell us anything about the Muppet you created?

Yeah, his name is Walter. He's an adorable little guy who is sort of the eyes and ears of the audience, just a giant Muppet fan, and his goal is to reunite the Muppets, remind them of what they used to be.

It was really an honour to have my own Muppet made.

Lindsay's got cabin fever

► Lohan's finding house arrest a bit limiting ► Says she might return to (alcohol-free) clubbing

Lindsay Lohan admits that being under house arrest in her Venice Beach condo is starting to get to her. "I'm a very social person, and I like being outside," she tells Life & Style. "I'd like to get out more — just going out and having dinner."

And while Lohan insists that "alcohol is not in my house, so it's just not a part of my life," she hasn't ruled out a return to the nightclub life when her sentence is up. "I don't think you should ever say never," she says.

"Even though Maria is a Kennedy, and has inherited a great deal of money from her parents' estate since their deaths, she is taking the child support," a source says.

As for the divorce itself, the source says it's just a matter of time: "Maria wants to get a fair divorce settlement, and move on with her life," the source says.

► The Middletons have thrown the fashion world a curveball with their safe and pretty personal style ► Will it stick? From the looks of retail, probably

KENYA HUNT

METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

It seemed like fashion's loud and wild moment was sealed, with pop stars like Lady Gaga and Rihanna ruling the best-dressed lists and trends such as sequins and fur dominating the runways. Then a princess entered the picture.

Something happened when Kate and Pippa Middleton made their way up the steps to Westminster Abbey in April. The sisters weren't just claiming their new roles as tabloid obsessions, they were also ushering in a trend for conservative and preppy dressing not necessarily sanctioned by the runway or magazine editors or even the whims of street style.

The Middletons are the respectable foil to Gaga's outlandishness. Their skirt lengths are modest. They wear nude stockings. Their blouses are tucked in. And their shoes aren't too high.

They're the daughters of multi-millionaire parents. Yet in a strange way, their personal style — touched by nary a Rachel Zoe or Nicola Formichetti — represents that of average working girls everywhere, women who can't afford stylists or don't want the hassle of walking around in tall Jimmy Choos. This is made all the more clear by the speed at which anything worn by the Duchess of Cambridge sells out.

The polished looks the sisters have worn these past few months are not unlike the office-appropriate dresses you might see in Ann Taylor. It's the kind of safe clothing, that would make most fashion types balk and is also the very thing that makes them a colossal hit.

From head to toe women will be wearing simple, classic looks that emphasize style and comfort; think versatile denim and relaxed fits like the Ex-Boyfriend jean, knee-length summer dresses and the military-inspired cargo pant.

Pamela Davis, store manager at Ross Mayer, suggests classic pieces.

The versatile Boyfriend jacket by Ross Mayer accomplishes just that. Davis says it can be worn over a dress, paired with walking shorts or worn with pants for an overall polished look.

"Ross is very well-known for doing wonderful fabrics in his linings because when rolling up the sleeve it gives the look some edge," shares Davis.

Casual looks that incorporate long-standing favourites remain popular this season. "We're still seeing the cropped top and baggy, wide set t-shirt look paired with tight or the Ex-Boyfriend jean which we love here," says Tarah Kennedy, Store Manager of Leslie's Clothing. She points out an Ex-Boyfriend cropped jean by AG that feature a relaxed look with moderate distressing.

For evening and special occasions we'll see embellished cocktail dresses, custom-tailored suits and bold colours like aqua, pink and red.

Lin Zhao, designer and owner of Ryce Fashion Design Inc., says that fabric often determines the style of the garment. "A variation of textiles suit different styles and occasions. Adding details makes the pieces unique and eye-catching but also sophisticated so that one can stand out in a crowd."

AMPLIFY YOUR LOOK

The key to a completed look is bringing it all together with the right enhancements.

Handbags, understated jewellery and a complimentary hairstyle work in unison to create a chic look.

Elisabete Moriarty, President and Creative-Artistic Director of Elisabete R Salon Inc., says that the right hairstyle is an important aspect of a woman's image.

"Gone are the days of over-processed hair. Hair should be playful and sexy with little hints of colour and soft waves," says Moriarty. "Names like Angelina Jolie and Jennifer Lopez come to mind. Balance skin tones with the hair colour and compliment the face shape with the right cut."

To round out the look choose modest accessories like long single-chain necklaces with attractive clusters and romantic coloured handbags in blush, pink or coral. These essential additions will amplify this season's classic silhouette and take your look up a notch.

Get the Moroccan look

► Bring an exotic feel to your home this summer ► Rich pinks, purples and turquoise colours meet mosaic and lattice-inspired shapes ► This far-away style is becoming increasingly popular in modern homes

Morocco is influenced by the many cultures that surround it.

Acting as a crossroads between the east and west, north and south, Moroccan decor blends styles from France, Portugal and Spain from the northwest, with strong African, Persian, and Islamic influences from the south and east.

This results in a unique and inspirational style specific to Morocco.

Want to create the perfect ethnic-inspired gro-tto or outdoor retreat? Here's a few elements to consider incorporating.

Strong Moroccan colours

Colour is the focal point of Moroccan decorating.

Use colours like turquoise blue and bright green, mixed metallics like gold and silver for nighttime glitter, and rich reds and oranges that conjure up images of African sunsets.

Moroccan-style furnishings

Interior spaces are busy in pattern but simple in furniture. Sofas and tables are inviting and set low to the ground.

Add colourful pillows, blankets and rugs to the perfect base for a Moroccan-style room.

Floors in Moroccan interiors

Floors of dark hardwood are covered with plush Persian rugs, and stacked floor cushions create the perfect base for a Moroccan-style room.

Ceramic tile is often used for flooring and gives a cooling effect underfoot.

► Moroccan-style beds and sofas are inviting and set low to the ground.

Plants for Moroccan decor

Placed in large, colourful pots or baskets, exotic plants such as banana trees or papyrus help to create an oasis-like feel in a Moroccan-style home.

Overhead umbrellas and canopies

Richly coloured sheer or silk swagged over seating or dining areas or mosquito netting over beds add a mysterious touch, reminiscent of desert bazaar tents.

How provocative!

Sensual Moroccan scents

Choose candles, incense, or diffusers in scents rich with spices like cinnamon, nutmeg, saffron, or any exotic spices.

They'll help turn your

Romantic lighting

Lighting is an important element of Moroccan decor.

► Dim lighting can be achieved by lamps and pendants made from coloured glass, cut metal and carved wood.

► Using candles in traditional lamps will add the romantic element of moving light to your decor and exotic scents.

► Simple glass votives wrapped on the outside with colourful cellophane paper will also add an inexpensive and colourful flicker to your space.

Slide continues for Blue Jays

Another tough day at the plate had the Toronto Blue Jays pondering some lineup changes.

Brandon Beachy had a career-high 11 strikeouts in his first start in nearly six weeks, leading the Atlanta Braves to a 5-1 victory that completed a sweep of the struggling Blue Jays yesterday.

The Blue Jays lost for the ninth time in 13 games, a slide that has knocked them out of contention in the AL East.

Toronto has scored more than four runs only once during that stretch.

"The numbers don't lie," Toronto manager John Farrell said.

"We need to regroup. There's no question about it."

Injury ends Raonic's run

► Canadian forced to retire in first set after awkward fall

It was a rough day for Canada at the All England Club.

Milos Raonic retired because of injury yesterday and Rebecca Marino and Stephanie Dubois also bowed out in the second round as the last Canadian singles players were eliminated at Wimbledon.

Raonic had just broken Luxembourg's Gilles Muller for a 2-1 lead in the first set when he went down awkwardly and was forced to call it quits after just 23 minutes.

The 20-year-old from Thornhill, Ont., was moving to his left at the baseline at 15-all but lost his footing and tumbled. His legs went in different directions as he tried to move back to his right.

"I don't know anything," Raonic said of the injury. "It's too soon for a diagnosis on what it is. But it's something pretty deep in the hip."

"It's around both the inside and outside of the hip. A minor pull on the inside, but on the outside, it's (related to) the joint."

Later yesterday, Marino dropped a 7-6 (3), 6-2 decision to No. 29 seed Roberta Vinci of Italy and Dubois fell 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 to Germany's Andrea Petkovic.

Raonic, who went to hospital for an MRI, grimaced and spent some time sitting where he fell as officials and his opponent looked on.

A trainer worked on his

More Wimbledon

Five-time champion Venus Williams needed three sets and nearly three hours to overcome the oldest player in the field and reach the third round at Wimbledon yesterday.

leg and Raonic eventually limped to the sidelines where he received more treatment and had his right thigh wrapped.

"I knew right away. I didn't think I could even lift my leg. It was a pretty sharp pain," Raonic said. "But as

- With rain delaying play on the other courts at the All England Club, Williams outlasted 40-year-old Kimiko Date-Krumm of Japan 6-7 (6), 6-3, 8-6 in a compelling battle under the roof of Centre Court.

time passed, with the treatment, I was able to walk a bit."

He returned to action, moving gingerly and won his service game before Muller won his.

Raonic, the 31st seed, saw the trainer again during the break and retired while leading the set 3-2.

He and Muller both ended with five aces, with the Raonic hitting 14 winners.

Raonic's unexpected exit was a huge disappointment for the big server who had stormed into the second round 48 hours earlier at the All England club.

A win by Raonic would have seen him face defending champion Rafael Nadal in the third round.

"I haven't had too many injuries, so I can't really tell, I don't know my body that well," Raonic added. "I'm really in the dark."

"It could be just a minor bruising that could get better in a few days. Or it could be something more serious."

Raonic, along with Marino and Dubois, was one of three Canadians in the second round, a first for the Canada since Sonya Jeyaseelan, Sebastien Lareau and Daniel Nestor did it in 2000. The 44th-ranked Marino held a 4-2 lead before Vinci pulled level at 5-all and saved a set point in the 12th game to set up a tiebreaker.

The Italian won the set when Vancouver native Marino sent a return wide.

Vinci, seeded 29th, took a 4-1 lead in the second and saved a pair of break points for a 5-2 lead.

Marino, who finished with seven aces but 33 unforced errors, saved two match points against her own serve but put a backhand into the net on Vinci's third opportunity to take the loss. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Raps keeping their draft options open

► Colangelo not afraid of drafting raw talent, or even trading pick away

Bryan Colangelo is not at all a risk-adverse man and if that means he has to make a surprise selection with the fifth pick in tonight's NBA draft, a surprise it shall be.

The Raptors president and general manager, now locked away trying to figure out who he might take or whether he should deal the pick away, is not at all concerned about the opinions of others.

"I don't really care if someone doesn't have (raw Congolese teenaged centre) Bismack Biyombo on the board at five, I'll consider him if he's the right pick for this team and we project him out the right way," Colangelo said after introducing Dwane Casey as the team's new coach.

"Same with (San Diego State forward) Kawhi Leonard. You don't see him mentioned at five often, maybe at seven, but at the end of the day, you do what you think is right for your team and what's right based on the years of experience and judgment you put into this."

Colangelo seems to have narrowed his list of possibilities to four — Biyombo, Leonard, Kentucky point guard Brandon Knight and Lithuanian centre Jonas Valanciunas — with Czech forward Jan Vesely and Connecticut point guard Kemba Walker as fallback positions.

But as much as he would like to add a young player to a core he's OK with, if the possibility of making a trade comes up, Colangelo is willing to listen.

Reports yesterday suggested the Raptors were among teams the San Antonio Spurs were calling in an effort to move near the top of the draft. And Colangelo himself suggested trade talk will likely continue right up until draft time.

"I've been asked to move back a couple of spots and it's something I think we have to look at and consider if there's a package that nets us more value," he said.

Rain can't save Red Sox from losing to Padres

The way things had been going for Clayton Richard, it only figured that he'd have to go through a day like this to get a win.

Will Venable hit a leadoff home run and Richard got some support for a change, lifting the San Diego Padres over the Boston Red Sox 5-1 yesterday in a game delayed by rain four times before it was called after 7½ innings.

Richard (3-9) lasted through two of the delays during the game, giving up one run and eight hits over five innings to snap a five-game losing streak. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
